For January's digital collection spotlight, we are focusing on the Northern Utah Mormon Food Storage Fieldwork Collection. This collection is full of interviews and documentary photographs regarding Mormon food storage activities carried out by members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints from Cache Valley, Utah, during 1992-2002. These foodways traditions include gardening, food processing, food storage systems, food storage usage and beliefs surrounding the Church members' food preservation practices and can be seen inside the collection.